

Finding Food

A mother polar bear points her nose in the air. She sniffs, trying to smell food under the ice. It's cold here, and food is hard to find. She is teaching her cubs to hunt.

She stops and sniffs the ice. The cubs watch.

Crack! She breaks the ice and finds food.

Making a Home

It's early morning, and a mother orangutan swings through the forest with her baby. They are looking for a good place to build a nest.

They stop along the way.
They rest. They eat fruit.

Soon they are ready to move on. They will find a good place to sleep.
